WINS MERIT AWARD

When Paul Poffenburger, left, fought through the waves and heavy tide at the mouth of the Carmel River to save his friend Jimmie Brown, center, who was being carried out to sea, he hardly expected the young victim's first words. Gasping and shivering, Jimmy said, "Gee, thanks."

Last Friday at the chapter house of the American Red Cross in Carmel, Paul was presented, by Carl Bosholm, chapter chairman, right, with the American National Red Cross Certificate of Merit signed by Lyndon B. Johnson and E. Rolland Harriman, "in recognition of services rendered on January 22, 1967, when he rescued James Brown from the water. His immediate action saved the victim's life." Paul was also given a small gold pin inscribed, "Life Saving Award of Merit."

The witnesses necessary to make possible the award were located by Jimmie Brown's father, Tom Brown, through newspaper columns. Watching the presentation were Mr. and Mrs. Brown and a number of Paul's Carmel High School friends.

Paul has previously taken the water safety and first aid training through the Red Cross.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT REPORTS:

Teenage Drug Problem Exists In Community

"It's with us," said Superintendent Dr. Harris A. Taylor to the board of education last night in reference to the use of drugs by teen-agers in the Carmel Unified School District.

"Apparently we do have a problem, the extent of which is not known," he emphasized after reporting results of a meeting between representatives of local police, the county sheriff's narcotics division, the county counsel's office, high school counselors and administrators.

The teenage use of narcotics is not a problem peculiar to Carmel but widespread in California from San Diego to Sacramento and growing rapidly in the state, Harris pointed out.

Schools in the Carmel district, however, are particularly vulnerable to drug traffic because students have more spending money available, thus creating a market for drugs. More money means more problems and the use of narcotics by teen-agers is a problem for both public and private schools in this area, Harris stressed.

Parents should pay attention to where their children are, what they are doing and with whom, and, particularly, give more attention to the hour at which they return home, he added.

The use of narcotics by teen-agers is not primarily a school problem but a community problem, Harris indicated. The school's area of responsibility, he stated, is to inform parents a narcotics problem does exist; estimate the extent of it; be alert to see that drugs are not passed from student to student on the campus or used on the campus; to see that students are not under the influence of drugs during classes; and assume a definite obligation to educate students on the effects of taking narcotics.

The administration is preparing a newsletter to be sent to parents giving accurate information on the narcotics problem in the Carmel district.

"It is our obligation to educate the parents. We have a problem and we must get to work on it, but we cannot do it alone," Harris said.

He added that, as all Carmel district schools are situated in the unincorporated areas of the county, Carmel police cannot be called upon for assistance. The school system must depend entirely on the sheriff's office and, particularly, officers of the sheriff's narcotic division in respect to use of drugs. Because of budget problems, there is a possibility that the narcotics division of the sheriff's office may be eliminated next month, Harris told trustees.

Doug Adams, a senior at Carmel High School and a student leader and star athlete, told the board that out of the 200 members in the senior class pictured in the 1967 yearbook, he could pick out 125 who had had some experience with marijuana, some with LSD. He also reported that there was use of "nutmeg and other fantastic stuff just to get high on. There is in our community a definite need for students to be given some background on drugs," he stated.

City Treasurer Resigns To Head Santa Cruz Bank

Frederick K. Duhring has been promoted to manager of Wells Fargo Bank's new Santa Cruz Campus office, K. Stanley Thompson, senior vice president in charge of the Bank's Peninsula division announced today.

Located across from the University of California's Santa Cruz campus, the office will open for business April 10.

For the past eight years Duhring has served as assistant manager of Wells Fargo's Carmel office. Earlier he was assigned to the bank's San Francisco head office real estate loan department for almost 13 years, and acquired his first branch experience at the San Leandro office.

Born and raised in Berkeley, Duhring was graduated from the University of California. His great-grandfather, Frederick Duhring, worked as a Wells Fargo express agent in Sonoma in the 19th century. Another great-grandfather, John P. Stearns, served two terms as district attorney of Santa Cruz County from 1859-1863.

In Carmel, Duhring has served as city treasurer, a member of the board of directors of the American Red Cross chapter; chairman of the board of trustees, Harrison Memorial Library; and a member of the Kiwanis Club and the Little League.

Duhring, his wife, Faith, and their two sons, Frederick, 14, and John, 13 will make their new home in Santa Cruz.

Duhring's resignation from the position of city treasurer will be officially received by the city council at its April meeting on Wednesday night. His resignation from the Harrison Memorial Library Board becomes effective on Saturday.

FREDERICK K. DUHRING

Propose Merging Sunset And Arts Commissions

The Sunset Commission and Carmel Arts Commission are in accord in regard to the fact that they duplicate effort, interest and responsibilities. In consequence, Mayor Stephen Grant has appointed Councilmen Herbert Blanks and Eben Whittlesey members of a committee to study merging the two bodies with a report to be given Wednesday at the April city council meeting.

A March 21 arts commission report, concurred with by the Sunset Commission Monday night, states "it would be in the best interests of the city to dissolve the present Sunset and arts commissions and form a new single commission which would perform the functions of both."

The arts commission which is charged with the responsibility of the city's outdoor Forest Theater, predates the Sunset Commission which was appointed to deal exclusively with the operation and future planning of Sunset Center, the city's cultural and community center.

Accepted with regret Monday night was the resignation of Sunset Commissioner Jean van Loben Sels. At the same meeting, Sunset Commission Chairman Peter Dyer announced that he cannot accept reappointment. Mrs. van Loben Sels stated that "pressure of personal affairs" prevented her from continuing on the commission. Dyer said he had "a tremendous load to carry."

I'll never touch that stock again!

He had only himself to blame. Prompted solely by personal hunch, he bought the stock back in 1956. Five months later the price slipped and he sold at a considerable loss.

He learned his lesson about personal hunches. Yet he continues to err by vowing, "I'll never touch that stock again!"

The reason is simple. When this man sold, so did hundreds of other investors. Ultimately, the company was forced to make intelligent and probably overdue adjustments to new marketing situations. As a result, the company eventually prospered, and today its stock represents a sound investment opportunity.

Yet the man persists, "I'll never touch that stock again!" His reaction is all too human ...but it has clouded his objectivity.

At Dean Witter & Co. we apply a kind of tough-minded objectivity to each new situation as it arises. We try to eliminate the human element by basing recommendations on thorough research, kept current by some of the most respected analysts in the nation.

If you could benefit from greater objectivity in choosing investments, we would be glad to help. Just telephone the manager of your nearby Dean Witter & Co. office today. Or write to us at the address below.

'Arsenic And Old Lace' At Studio Smooth, Professional Production

by Mary Elber

The Studio Theatre has done a service to the community by reviving the time-honored comedy "Arsenic and Old Lace" which opened last weekend with what can only be called a star studded cast.

Two of the Peninsula's best known and loved leading ladies, Betty Fowlston and Ruth McElroy, add a special touch of delight and true professionalism to the parts of the gentle Brewster sisters, Abby and Martha. Here is a perfect combination of interplay and humor done with such sure knowledge and timing that the audience is, from the opening lines of the play, completely relaxed and able to enter into the area of make believe with the sure feeling that all will be well. Their wonderful characterizations; their superlative acting; and their obvious enjoyment of their roles and the play make this production a must for all those who enjoy good theatre.

The supporting players in this production are not to be overlooked. They couldn't be in this show. They were all so good.

Robert E. Costen, who plays the slightly demented Teddy Brewster, nephew to Abby and Martha, who thinks himself Teddy Roosevelt, is really funny in his part. His characterization is one of the high points of the show and keeps the audience convulsed with laughter every time he appears on stage.

As the young lovers Mortimer Brewster and Elaine Harper, Bill K. Houle and Eliane Yates play their parts well. They add just the right touch of sanity, romance and youth to the production. Bill has an especially nice feeling for comedy and his interpretation of his part greatly enhances the overall effect of the play.

One of the highlights of the show is the performance of Don Chambers. He plays the role of the sinister Jonathan Brewster who comes home after many years to find that he is definitely outclassed in the art of murder by his two aunts. Chambers not only looks his part but his voice and movement never fail for a moment to project slight tingles of apprehension up and down the spines of the audience. He is a truly frightening villain.

Jonathan's accomplice in crime, Doctor Einstein, is aptly interpreted by Elroy Naczek. He does so well in his role that one feels almost sorry for his involvement with such an evil person.

Ed Shinbrot is a delight in the role of Officer O'Hara, who wants to write a play and is determined to hold Mortimer until he hears the whole plot. He is very funny and adds a great deal to the final act of the show.

Duke Everts as Mr. Witherspoon who comes in at the end of the play to take Teddy, Abby and Martha away to Happydale Sanitorium, is great. He adds one of the best portrayals of the whole show and has the audience in a state of mild hysteria for the too few moments he is on stage.

John Sullivan as one of the Brewster sisters' hopeful "lodgers" is excellent. He never loses his character for a minute and does a fine job in keeping the atmosphere of the play.

Rounding out the superb cast are George A. Smith as the Reverend Doctor Harper and Elaine's father, who isn't too sure of Mortimer's job as a reviewer and the effect that this will have on his daughter; Weber Buckham and Neil Kaye as Officers Klein and Brophy, who love the Brewster family, and with the help of their Lieutenant Rooney, played well by Bob Lotz, settle the whole affair to the satisfaction of everyone.

A great deal of credit is due to the fine directing job done by Michael Keller. His manipulation of this large cast on the small stage is excellent and his pacing of the show does much to make this the smooth and professional production that was enjoyed by audiences last weekend and will be every Friday, Saturday and Sunday throughout April.

The setting and lighting by Bob Evans, Jr. increase the mood of the production. This mood is carried out by the costumes, which were handled by Judy Evans, and the properties by Sean Tracy. The atmosphere of the play, which is essential for a show of this kind, is so well handled by these persons that, from the moment the curtain opens, the audience is transported to the little old home in Brooklyn and into the lives of the Brewster family "and all that entailed."

The SRO sign will undoubtedly be out at the Studio Theatre for the entire run of "Arsenic and Old Lace," so call for reservations and enjoy yourself.

POLICE CHIEF DISCUSSES CRIME INCREASE

In a recent talk to the Carmel Rotary Club, Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann said that crime would continue to increase as lawmakers and courts continue to overbalance the scales in favor of criminals, at the expense of the law abiding citizens. The criminal records of Washington, D.C. bear out Klaumann's view. In 1957 there were only 15,554 criminal offenses reported there, down from 20,163 in 1950. The clearance rate for 1957 was 49.5 per cent compared to 48.5 per cent for seven years before. But by 1966 the number of offenses had more than doubled to 34,765 while the clearance rate had dropped to a rock-bottom of 26.3 per cent. These things are a matter of grave concern to Carmel's chief of police and should be to everyone in the community, the Rotary Club feels.

Did you know that almost 50% of the world's two-hundred-million telephones are in the United States? In fact, your phone is one of more than 10 milion in Cailfornia alone! Our state has more telephones than countries like Russia (7.9), Canada (7.4), France (6.1) or Italy (5.9). Here' another fact you might find interesting: the average Monterey Peninsula resident makes 622 calls per year. Which just goes to show how much people depend on their phone to get things done.

Planning a program for your group or club? We'll be glad to arrange an interesting lecture or demonstration on one of the many phases of telephone communications. Just give us a call or drop in and chat about it.

Dialing long distance calls direct is faster and easier than placing calls through the Operator. And, if for some reason you reach a wrong number after dialing, it's just as easy to be sure you're not charged for the call.

After you hang up, dial "0" for Operator, and tell her you've reached a wrong number. She'll ask you the number you were trying to dial, and help you complete your call. We want to be sure you don't pay for a call that goes to a wrong number.

SYMPHONY FOYER SHOW

Ruth Buol selects a painting by Gerald Wasserman for the in-the-foyer exhibit at Sunset Auditorium on Tuesday when the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra presents its fourth concert of the season. Previous artists represented in foyer shows include John Bolt Morse, Linford Donovan and Fred Klepich.

These in-the-foyer exhibits featuring new painters for each symphony program have been planned and hung by Mrs. Buol, one of Carmel's most creative people. Her combined love of fine art and music is reflected on the walls of the auditorium foyer.

Her dual interests began when she studied music at the Damrosch Institute, which is now known as the Juilliard Conservatory of Music in New York, while pursuing art courses. She worked with Marcel Dupre taking music composition in Paris, then found Florence, Italy, a source of inspiration for the painting of both representational and abstract art.

Upon returning from Europe, Mrs. Buol toured the Eastern United States as a concert pianist, also found time to paint and create foil collages. An ice storm and broken wrist ended her piano career, but one-man shows and portrait commissions filled the void along with gradual collection of works by some of the world's noted artists. Her Carmel Meadows home serves as a showcase for an Alexander Calder mobile, a Picasso painting, and Modigliani and Miro are also included in her decor.

In 1951, Ruth became involved with copper enameling as an art form. She describes this interest by saying, "working with the endless potential of enamel colors proved to be the key to my artistic dedication. My years in Paris when new Matisse paintings were shown everywhere made a profound and lasting impression. It became an obsession which has never diminished."

Her "obsession" has received international acclaim with such jewelry creations as "Meadow Mist," "Emerald Dreamboats," and "Chunky" capturing the imagination of women throughout the world. Last month, Buol's Jewels opened its doors in Carmel's new Del Dono Court.

With Ruth's wide range of talents and interests, the shop should become an artistic focal point, just as the in-the-foyer displays in conjunction with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra's concerts have created another dimension in sight-and-sound.

PARTY PLANS . . .

By Phyllis Jervey

Sauce For The Portuguese

Sauces are a very essential part of Portuguese cuisine. Being members of a great seafaring nation, the people of Portugal prefer distinctive ways of preparing fish and seafood — but always with a covering of tomato, eggplant, onions, garlic, pimiento-olives and spices such as marjoram, oregano, rosemary, comino.

All of these are Californianos, so let's get ready in an easy way for "Bravo Portugal" the most enchanting travel film yet, to be shown at Sunset Center tomorrow night.

Make the sauce early in the morning so all you'll have to prepare before an early pre-cinema supper is the fish.

Portuguese Sauce

One large yellow onion, thinly sliced; 1 clove garlic, minced; 1/3 cup olive oil; 1 medium eggplant, peeled and cubed; 1 medium zucchini, sliced lengthwise (unpeeled); 2 green peppers, cut in 1-inch strips; 1 tbsp. capers; 2 cloves, heads removed; ½ tsp. cumin seeds, pounded; 1 tbsp. basil; 1 tsp. salt; ½ tsp. ground black pepper; ½ tsp., each, celery salt and thyme; 1 tsp. crushed marjoram or rosemary; pinch of oregano; 4 firm tomatoes, peeled and cut into strips; 1 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives; ¼ cup chopped parsley.

In large skillet, saute onion and garlic in olive oil until soft. Add eggplant, zucchini and green pepper. Toss well. Stir in seasonings and tomatoes with olives and parsley. Simmer, covered, until vegetables are just soft. Refrigerate in same pan after cooling same.

Baked Cod, Portuguese Style
(Serves 6)

Four lbs. fresh cod; ¼ tsp. pepper; 1 tsp. salt; shake of paprika; 1 cup boiled long-grain white rice (dry and flaky and slightly undercooked); lemon juice and butter.

Clean cod and have split lengthwise. Have bones removed and rub fish with pepper, salt and paprika. Place fish on bed of rice in long baking dish. Sprinkle fish with lemon juice. Cover with Portuguese sauce, adding a little water if it has thickened too much (or use tomato juice or V-8). Dot top with butter. Cover baking dish and bake in 400 F. oven for 20 minute. Uncover and bake about 10 minutes more. Serve very hot in baking dish placed on electric server at table.

Accompany this delicious dish with the following homemade bread.

Portuguese White Bread

One cup scalded milk; 2 yeast cakes dissolved in ¼ cup warm water; 3 eggs; 1 cup sugar; ½ cup butter; 5 cups flour; 1 tsp. salt.

Cool the milk and beat in the yeast dissolved in warm water and 3 eggs. Add the sugar, then the butter. Stir in 5 cups sifted flour with 1 tsp. salt and knead dough 20 minutes. Place in a buttered bowl, cover, then let rise for about 3 hours at room temparture or until doubled in size. Punch down and divide into 2 round loaves. Place in buttered pie plates. Cover and let rise to double in size. Brush with milk. Bake in 350 F. oven about 45 minutes. Best when served warm from the oven and sliced by each guest on a cutting board at the table. Pass unsweetened butter.

For dessert have sherbet glasses filled with fruit compote and kept cold until serving time. Pour some dry white wine (the same as served with the fish) over each compote. Here is a lovely cake to go with the fruit.

Bolo Padre

Half a cup butter; 1 cup sugar; 2 cups flour; ½ cup milk; 2 eggs; 2 tbsps. cognac or rum; 1 tsp. cinnamon; 2 tsps. baking powder; ½ cup broken nut meats.

Cream the sugar and butter. Stir in eggs, flour, milk, cinnamon and nut meats. Add flavoring (artificial rum, almond or vanilla extract may be used), then add baking powder last. Put in greased cake pan and bake in 350 F. oven until done when tested. Or you might prefer to make the next dessert.

Suspiros Meringues
(Sighs)

Three egg whites; 1 cup granulated sugar; ½ tsp. lemon juice.

Beat egg whites until very stiff. Add sugar gradually, then lemon juice. Line cookie sheet with brown paper. Drop mixture by teaspoons onto this paper and put into 350 F. oven.

Remove when slightly brown. Makes one dozen.

For additional Portuguese recipes there is a new small "Portuguese-American Cookbook" by Dr. E. Donald Asselin, published by Charles E. Tuttle Co., which the Wells' Book Shop, Carmel, will order for you.

The subtle and rich nuance of fresh vegetables makes a perfect sauce for meat, fowl and fish in Portugal.

My Most Interesting Trip

JOURNEY TO PARADISE

by Margaret Blackburn

Each My Most Interesting Trip story has been written by an entrant in the Pine Cone's travel contest. Following publication, Carmel travel agents will select three winners. First prize will be a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. Two $25 bonds will be awarded, also.

Tahiti, Fiji, Samoa, all magic words, but seemingly to exist for many of us in a never-never land far away! However, my dream ship came in and I found myself sailing on a modern freighter, which also carried 12 passengers, bound for its first foreign port—Tahiti.

Part of our cargo was a red Thunderbird for a customer at Papeete, but, after he got it, how he ever squeezed it through the mad bicycle and jeep traffic on the wharf streets during peak hours has bothered me. Pedestrians move with languor, in deference to the heat, so vehicular traffic bounces around them with great abandon.

Color is everywhere — from the sails of the small island boats docked at the main street of Papeete, to the natives, some of whom still wear lava lava skirts gracefully and carelessly wrapped around the waist or under the arms. At times flowers are worn in the hair, behind the ear or in the form of a crown, if at a gala.

One of these beautiful gala white ginger crowns was worn by the father of a family where I was fortunate enough to be invited for a birthday feast. It was father's birthday and he proudly sported the Caesar-like headpiece at a jaunty angle as he cooked the dinner, his privilege on this day. And a delicious dinner it was — barbecued beef on skewers and eaten with the fingers, baked breadfruit with butter. The salad was superb, a gourmet dish of raw fish topped with coconut milk dressing. This latter dish I shall taste in my better dreams!

Natural picture postcard scenes are everywhere in Tahiti — as one drives through the countryside where roads are bordered with flowering hedges, trees of "Pink Showers," palms silhouetted against a cobalt blue sky — or, as one looks across the sea to the purple mountains of the Island of Moorea—color, more color is ever in the eye!

We have heard so many times the cliche "Paradise of the Pacific" as applied to Tahiti, but it is most apt. When confronted with it all one is overpowered. Tourism has changed much of the old Tahiti, of course, and these days of jet travel, which bring this "paradise" so close, will change it to an even greater degree, but so far the beautiful Polynesians love to share their islands with the foreigner.

Our next port of call was the one with the musical sounding name, Pago Pago, in American Samoa. Verdant it is, but not so colorful as Tahiti and still showing some effects of the 1966 hurricane in the rebuilding of the village and country homes, called fales. The Bay Area of that part of American Samoa which we saw was delightful.

The native people have beautiful faces and are regal in bearing, perhaps because they sleep on mats and have only soft beds in their open fales as status symbols, or to be used for a visitor. We enjoyed these friendly people so much whether it was sharing roast pig with them at a Sunday picnic on an idyllic beach, or watching their outstanding television experiment in teaching. We stateside Americans can be justly proud of our dedicated teachers, research and production technicians who are out there "teaching Samoans to teach themselves" through television.

Dramatic steps have been made in all of American Samoa since Governor Rex Lee came into office in 1961. We saw only one of the seven islands of this group, but good roads were evident, an excellent and artistic airport has been built in native open-thatched fale style, the architecturally beautiful Pago Pago Intercontinental Hotel, run by a corporation of residents, is handsome and so are many other examples of an improved and expanding economy.

Breathless with American Samoan activities, including a native wedding and a most colorful Christmas reception given at the Governor's mansion and including notable chiefs in native costumes, we sailed on to the "brink of tomorrow" for Apia in Western Samoa. It lies just this side of the International Dateline where today is tomorrow. It is, since 1966, the only fully independent Polynesian nation.

Life is slower in Western than in American Samoa, but they also have fewer of the amenities which the American Samoans have begun to fully enjoy — motor cars, jobs which buy better food and comforts. At times one detects a note of envy on the part of the Western brother, but only for a time. The countryside is provident and no Samoan is sad for long. He needs no clothes, his food is everywhere at hand. He greets you when coming from school, or tumbling in muddy swimming holes, or splashing under a waterfall. He is courteous, gay, happy. Old and young were charming. Life is good as they live it in this spot chosen, even above Tahiti, as the setting for the filming of "Return to Paradise."

But before a return, which we wished we could do for each port, we went on to the next two stops —Suva in Fiji and Noumea in New Caledonia. Suva, with its musical and far-away sounding name, was the most cosmopolitan city of all. Noumea was bustling with the gay participants of the South Pacific games and so modern in landscaping of parks and building artistry. It reminds one of a South Pacific Riviera with its many new hotels against white sand beaches.

I wish I could take you to meet "Mama" in Suva. She was the wife of our dining steward. Or take you for a ride in a "Baby Car," the blue jeeps used for transportation in Noumea. How much there is to tell, to see, to do in this most exciting area of the vast Pacific!

Our freighter days were wonderful, but no matter how you go —by air — by sea — do go. Bon voyage!

Film On Portugal At Sunset March 31

"Bravo Portugal," a new two-hour, color travel-adventure film, will be narrated in person by its photographers, Lisa Chickering and Jeanne Porterfield, at 8:15 p.m., tomorrow in Sunset Center auditorium. The showing is part of the current Explorerama-Carmel series and will be the exclusive showing of the film for Northern California.

The film has been hailed as the finest travel-adventure film of the last 24 years. Highlights include the ruins of Conimbrigia, Evora, and Elvas, the Royal Palaces of Queluz and Sintra, the University at Coimbra, the resorts of Estoril and Caiscais, the fishing village of Nazare, a 17 century pageant and bullfight, the unusual "Festival of the Trays" at Tomar, a Fado singers story in Lisbon, Porto and the port wine story, and the moving pilgrimage of Fatima with some 700,000 people.

Lisa Chickering and Jeanne Porterfield, the film's producers, have background in the theatre and in music. They are today among the top travel-adventure film-lecture photographers in America. Each of the girls narrates half of the program.

The film is presented by The Explorers Club of San Francisco with a portion of the proceeds used to provide annual scholarships to young students throughout the country.

Talk On ESP Slated For Woman's Club

"My Own Experiences with Extra-Sensory Perception" is the topic chosen by Floyd Corbin, lecturer and author, for his addresses to members of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday at 2 p.m.

How do we account for premonitions, dreams and what is sometimes called intuition? What is the reason for the simultaneous discovery of natural laws and inventions by people unknown to each other? Are we all connected by a web of thought? These are some of the questions to be discussed.

Corbin, Iowa-born, is a graduate of Boyles College in Omaha and studied law at the University of Wyoming in Laramie. After a career in railroading, he had the misfortune to lose his sight as a result of an automobile accident, and was faced with the necessity of planning new interests and activities. He went back to school, earned his master's and doctor's degrees in philosophy and entered the lecture field.

Corbin and his wife now live in Los Angeles. He has written five books and, with his wife, is co-author of the book entitled, "How to Relax in a Busy World."

The speaker will be introduced by Mrs. J. R. Lynas, club president and program chairman. Following the program, Mrs. George I. Meyer, Mrs. Barry N. Jones and Mrs. Wallace H. Lowry will preside at the tea tables.

Foreign Students Tell Rotarians About Their Lands

The faraway lands of Persia, Malaysia and Africa were represented by students of Monterey Peninsula College at Carmel Rotary Club's International Day luncheon meeting last week.

Marjorie Wong of Malaysia told of the stable economy of her country which is 80 per cent based on exports involving rubber primarily.

Moud Alghanim related the story of his little country of Kuwait which contains only 5,200 square miles and 400,000 people. He said it is a very wealthy country due to its oil exports and has a per capita income of $3,300. This is $200 higher than in the U.S. Kuwait, he added, is mostly a desert country where the temperature reaches as high as 135 degrees in the shade.

Behrouz Saba was very explicit in telling how appreciative his country of Iran is of United States aid. He said they show this appreciation in offering brotherhood with our country on the cold fronts. He pointed out that in the 630,000 square miles of his country, 75 per cent (20,000) of the people are farmers following in the footsteps of the oldest civilization known to the world and going back for about 7,000 years. His government now recognizes the need for industrialization and has developed an educational program accordingly.

Mable Mdwaniki of Tanzania explained how her country's name resulted when Tanganyika was joined by the island of Zanzibar. This East Africa country is also developing an educational program, to relieve the ignorance and resulting poverty prevailing in her country. She said her country is rich in minerals but greater education is needed to develop them and to overcome the yellow fever and malaria that hold her people back.

American Premiere Of Cavalli 'Messa' For 1967 Bach Festival

This year, from July 21 to 30, the Thirtieth Annual Carmel Bach Festival will be presented. The internationally known conductor-director of the festival, Sandor Salgo, professor of music at Stanford University, will return for his 12th year to present both a retrospective program of outstanding works of past festivals and a continuation of the festival's forward-looking policy of introducing significant musical compositions from Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque periods seldom, or never previously, heard in this area. In the latter category is the first American performance of Francesca Cavalli's Messa Concertata which will be sung in Carmel Mission Basilica. From past festivals Maestro Salgo has chosen Handel's oratorio "Saul," a complete performance of J. S. Bach's "Passion according to St. John" and Carl Phillip Emanuel Bach's "Magnificat." Another feature of the festival will be Bach's sonatas and partitas for solo violin.

Information about tickets and brochures may be obtained by writing to the Carmel Bach Festival, Box 503, Carmel, California, 93921 and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

Busiest Time Of The Year

The end of the Easter "break" marks the beginning of the most active time of the year at Stevenson. Five athletic teams will now be going full swing — swim, baseball, track, tennis and golf. The riding, ski and rifle teams all have stepped up schedules. Major publications like the yearbook and the literary magazine are published, and special events like the Father and Son Banquet (May 27) and the Junior-Senior Prom (May 13) are highlighted.

This year Alumni Day will be on April 22, plus all the league sports (golf, baseball and track) will have their special championship tournaments.

Finally, the speech team completes the season with league finals and with the state championship, followed by the annual awards assembly for outstanding speakers.

The new tennis courts also will be dedicated this Spring, and a number of special cultural events will be conducted by the art and music departments. The campus will continue to welcome most unusual guests and speakers in the field of religion, science, politics and education.

Plus . . . well, we might pause briefly to mention two areas where our boys have accomplished special honors this past week.

RIDING: The riding team, along with their fine coach, Norman Ellis, went to Fresno for the semi-annual invitational, with riders and schools from throughout the Western United States.

Mason Phelps again proved his range of skill in riding two horses and placing 3rd overall with one, and 4th overall with the other. Mason took 3rd in dressage, 3rd in cross country, 1st in field and track, 2nd in stadium jumping and 3rd in open hunter for a remarkable overall performance in three days. Martin Mooney was in the first five in junior stadium jumping among 75 of the top riders in the West, while Taz Drobek (Carmel Valley) was 5th in the green hunter event. Larry Grant was also cited by Coach Ellis for an outstanding "clean go" ride in cross country and hunter hacks.

John Bosse was the team manager. Coach Ellis himself, who is no mean rider, placed 3rd in dressage and 5th in cross country hunter. Norm said: "This certainly was one of the toughest courses in America, and of Olympic quality in every way. Our younger boys were outstanding under the most trying conditions."

SPEECH: Phil Fleming of Carmel Valley won the regional Lions Club contest covering the Monterey Peninsula and parts of the Salinas area. He next takes on all central California schools at Santa Cruz on April 7. Phil is a junior.

The debate team will compete in the league finals this Saturday at Cabrillo College. Based on season performance and winning points, the following eight boys are eligible to attend this contest: Robert Howard, Terry Talbot, Joe Arsenio, Steve Dart, Lonnie Foy, Eric Haas, Bill Atkins and Smith Dungan. A team will be selected this week.

And we hope everyone had a Happy Easter . . .

High Twelve Luncheon

by S. D. Mummert

Program chairmen have drawn liberally on High Twelve club members to give a variety of material for entertainment and information at recent noon luncheons. On March 20 Arch Balchin, past president, introduced his longtime friend and fellow member, Leland Paul, who has had 3. years of active service in the funeral profession. His experience dates back to the era of oil lamps and horsedrawn vehicles. After recounting significant changes in the mortuary field, Paul introduced Lowell A. Sawyer, his associate of 12 years, to give the principal talk.

Sawyer opened with a reference to President Abraham Lincoln who studied methods of interment practiced by ancient Egyptians to find acceptable means to bury soldiers killed in Civil War battles. Many of our present day funeral customs are based on Lincoln's historical investigations.

Included in the informative lecture were study needed for a license, legal procedures necessary for survivors, public assistance agencies available and other vital facts to guide families during times of bereavement. Burial privileges for veterans were explained in detail. Sawyer, at the close of the session, answered many questions which were interspersed with special comments by interested members.

DEL MONTE MASTER PLAN GAINS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

The Del Monte Plan, encompassing the philosophy of the development of the holdings of Del Monte Properties Company, has been chosen for national recognition.

A. G. Michaud, president of Del Monte Properties, announced the plan has been cited by the Building Research Institute in Washington, D.C. as an outstanding example of "preserving the physical environment of the Monterey Peninsula while developing it for the expanding population of the state."

The Del Monte Plan is a master plan for the development of the company's land holdings through the year 2,000. It envisions a deluxe hotel, golf course, university site and other health spa and resort developments.

To Work In Australia

Diane Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller, has decided to go "way down under" to Australia to live and work for awhile.

Diane, who attended Sunset School and graduated from Carmel High School in 1960, was an honor graduate in sociology from San Jose State College. For the past two years she has been working for Santa Clara County as a probation officer.

Diane's roommate was the one who inspired her to take a trip to the Antipodes and now that she has obtained her working visa she can't wait to leave. No date has been set for her departure as yet.

Back From Hawaii

Polly Campbell, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell, spent her Easter vacation enjoying the beaches and palms of Hawaii. She spent a week in the Islands. One of the most important things that happened while she was there was that her older sister Julie flew in and the two girls were able to spend several days together.

Julie is a stewardess with Pan American Airlines and is based in New York City. She has been on vacation for the past several weeks and has been visiting the Far East including Hong Kong and Tokyo with her roommate. The stopover in Hawaii was the last leg of their trip and all the girls had a wonderful time.

Short Story Award

The University of California, Davis, announces that Charles Osborne took third place for the short story he entered in the literary section of the university's Festival of the Arts. Charles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne.

To Live In Sacramento

Claudia Jane Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kern of Pebble Beach, became the bride of John Allen Lunday of Seaside in a service which took place on March 11 at the All Saints' Epsicopal Church.

Claudia wore a floor length gown of silk organza with glove-point sleeves and a sculptured neckline of re-embroidered Alencon lace. The same lace adorned the skirt to which a full chapel train was attached by three fabric roses. A sheer veil of many pearl-trimmed layers fell to her shoulders and was secured by a tiny pearl-adorned pillbox headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Richard Nance, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. Maid of honor was Ronalee Fader of Carmel and bridesmaids were Heather Hall and Gayley Hyde of Sacramento.

Thomas Moreland of Seaside, who is the brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were the brother of the bride, John Kern of Pebble Beach, David Horsburgh of Monterey and Richard Thurow of San Carlos.

The reception was held at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club after which the young couple left for a honeymoon on Catalina Island.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John Lunday and the late Mr. Lunday of Seaside. Both John and Claudia graduated from Monterey Peninsula College and the bride was employed at the Naval Postgraduate School and will be working at McClellan Air Force Base in Sacramento. While in Sacramento, John will complete his education in the field of park management.

Off To Europe

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Wilson left last Wednesday for an extended trip to Europe that should take them from now until the end of summer. Before they left there were many going away parties given for them by their Carmel friends.

On Sunday of last week, a party was given for Rod and Helen on Reamer's Beach in the afternoon. The sky was blue, the hot dogs charred and everyone attending had a great time.

The Wilsons have rented their house for the duration of their trip. As this is their third trip to Europe everyone is sure that they will enjoy themselves no end.

The Complete Gardener

. . . a regular diet of information having to do with plants

Today we're going to shuffle some odd notes together and answer a few questions that have popped up since we started this column. If you're going to plant strawberries for your home garden, it's time you were getting them into the ground. We notice that the commercial growers are using vita-bark soil conditioner this year instead of steer manure, which was standard for so many years. This, we learn, is due to the higher salt content in the manure. Into the bed, too, should be mixed some 0-10-10 to promote root development and bud set. After planting, some nitrogen can be introduced as a side dressing. Avoid chemical types to prevent burning the roots. Hoof-and-horn meal is preferred. Don't get excited about the first blooms. It's better for the plant if you pick off all the flowers until the middle of June. Then you can enjoy those huge, first-year berries all summer long.

Just in case you've fallen behind, your bush-berries should be wrapped on their wires and your grapes should be tied up by now. And there is still time to plant some in the nurseries. These are shallow-rooted plants, you know, and must be well-mulched to keep them moist when warmer weather arrives. Be sure to cut the canes back to 6 inches when you plant. Then when the growth commences, and gets to be about a foot high, nip off two inches and the plants will put out plenty of branches.

If you're in a hurry to set out tomato plants, we hope that you'll put them in a different spot than you had them last year. And if you have poinsettias outside it's time to think about cutting them back. Prune them severely and feed them. All of your early spring blooming shrubs can be pruned right after the flowers have gone. Then give them a feeding of complete plant food.

This is your last opportunity to spray your citrus for scale and mites with an oil emulsion. April 10 will be too late. The oil gets the scale and spectracide added will control the mites.

Continue your war on snails and slugs. The young will soon be hatching so it's better to use a meal-type bait and allow some of it to lodge in the plants. If you're bothered with earwigs dust the area with dry chlordane in the evening. Baiting is not always dependable.

By all means continue to plant drifts of gladiolus and keep those already in the ground well fed and well watered. You may be surprised what will happen when you give bulbs a little extra attention. Don't depend on the bulb to feed itself. Always supply some bulb food in the hole, when planting. The difference is amazing.

A good garden soil contains 45 per cent minerals, 30 per cent water, 20 per cent air, and 5 per cent organic matter. The social lesson of soil waste is that no man has the right to destroy soil even if he owns it in fee simple. The soil requires a duty of man which we have been slow to recognize.

Violinist Heads Guest Artists For County Symphony Concert

A provocative potpourri of music and artists awaits Carmel concert-goers on April 4 when the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra conducted by John Gosling presents its fourth program of the season at Sunset Center auditorium.

Star attraction is Jacob Krachmalnick who has been hailed as, "one of the great violin talents in America today," by Eugene Ormandy. An early student of Efrem Zimbalist and Alexander Hilsberg, he joined the Cleveland Orchestra as assistant concertmaster under George Szell, and was named concertmaster of the Philadelphia Orchestra in 1951. Now in his third season with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra as concertmaster, he has also held that important musical post with the Amsterdam Concertgebouw and the Vienna State Opera Orchestra. Krachmalnick will play Bruch's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in G Minor."

Appearing with him in the "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin, Viola and Orchestra" by Mozart, is Harry Rumpler, a former member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra and the San Francisco Opera Orchestra. Active in chamber music, this talented musician has also appeared with the San Francisco String Trio, the Griller Quartet, and the K-R-B String trio.

Concertmaster for this performance of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will be David Schneider who joined the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra in 1936. A founding member of the California String Quartet and the San Francisco String Ensemble, he also teaches at the San Francisco Conservatory, San Francisco State College, and the University of California at Berkeley.

Action By Planners

At last week's planning commission meeting, Lew A. McCreery was allowed to retain an existing porch structure on a building on Fifth between Dolores and San Carlos. Denied was a request to enlarge storage and laundry facilities at Ocean View Lodge asked by Norman Bollum. Patric Crichton was permitted to build a glassed in porch with an area of approximately 390 square feet on the courtyard side of Crichton House, a restaurant on Mission Street.

Tuesday, Carl Amberg, a sculptor from New York, will be the teacher of wood carving. This class meets in the Studio at 10 a.m.

At 1:30 p.m. there is a class of beginning bridge, taught by Mrs. Bell Ingalls. This class meets in the Helen Field Room on Tuesday afternoon.

The painting class meets with Mrs. Frieda Fischer at 2 p.m. in the Studio every Tuesday.

Conversational French is being taught by Mrs. Muriel Lewis on Wednesday mornings at 10 a.m. in the Alcove.

HACIENDA CARMEL

Residents of Hacienda Carmel have been encouraged in recent months to save "treasures" for the private Treasurer's Sale in Casa Fiesta today. Residents of Hacienda Carmel and Carmel Valley Manor, also members of Carmel Foundation and Carmel Womans' Club, were invited to browse among the "treasures" and purchase items that pleased them.

A Manual Arts Festival will be held in Casa Fiesta, opening with a private reception for Hacienda Carmel residents on the evening of April 22. A jury of professional artists from Carmel will judge the exhibit and award ribbons. Committee members in charge are Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, Leslie Smith, Miss Donna Davis and Mrs. Blossum Breuner.

FOREST HILL MANOR

On April 20, the following movies will be shown in the Lounge—"Yucatan, Land of the Mayas," and "Rembrandt, Painter of Men."

On April 27, Game Night will be featured. This event always provides an enjoyable evening for all residents of the Manor.

CANTERBURY WOODS

On Easter Sunday, the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society gave a concert in the John Tennant Memorial Auditorium at Canterbury Woods. The Chamber Trio featured Camille Olaeta, piano; Welton Lee, violin; Louise Vadetsky, violoncello; and Norma Jean Hodges, soprano. The winner of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society piano competition for 1967, Susan Pavick, gave several selections. The public was invited to attend this special musical treat.

PINPOINT PROFILE

Mrs. Martha Karnopp

Today we visited Mrs. Martha Karnopp of Forest Hill Manor. Her father, a Methodist minister, was one of the early circuit riders in the Wisconsin frontier country. His two brothers, grandson and great-grandson all joined the Methodist ministry, too.

Mrs. Karnopp was graduated from Lawrence University, at Appleton, Wisconsin, in 1906. That year she was drafted by the Young Women's Christian Association to organize an association for the women students at the University of Washington in Seattle.

In 1908, she married Charles F. Karnopp, a college friend who was a secretary in the New York office of the National Student Y.M.C.A. The next five years the couple spent with the Grenfell Mission in Newfoundland and Labrador.

Returning to the United States, Mr. Karnopp engaged in setting up financial campaigns for colleges in the Midwest. One of their children, hearing his father tell about the funds raised for a certain college, queried, "Daddy, why don't you raise some money for us?"

Later Mr. Karnopp went into the manufacturing business, with offices in Chicago. The family moved to Winnetka, largely for the sake of their four children, who were thus able to have the advantage of the "individual system" for which Winnetka public schools are noted.

The family lived in Winnetka for the next 40 years. Mr. Karnopp died in 1949.

Mrs. Karnopp was active in many community matters — the Drama Club and The Players, the League of Women Voters and, particularly, the program of the local church. She was a trustee of the village library and served on the village caucus committee.

In her school days in Wisconsin she excelled in public speaking, winning the State High School Declamatory Contest in 1902 and, in 1906, the State Intercollegiate Oratorical. She is the only girl ever to have won this particular contest.

Mrs. Karnopp expressed some of her thinking about growing old. She said, "As we reach retirement age we can settle down to enjoy our new freedom. We watch our children make their big and little triumphs. We are happy to baby-sit with our grandchildren. We check our blood pressure, take vitamin pills and eventually become quite absorbed with our insomnia. That is one road. But there is another road we can choose, if we wish. It is harder going, being rather exposed in places, but it offers adventure, stimulation, and an ever-changing pattern of beauty.

There are 100 ways in which an intelligent person of maturity, who has time at his or her command, can contribute to the success of an enterprise, to the happiness of an individual or to the peace of the world.

On this road we will rediscover ourselves and come into an experience of fulfillment and achievement. Life will be full of new meaning and ever-widening horizons — and the days will not be long enough."

I, for one, like her philosophy. That is why I am sharing it with you.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

We have a good group of books this week. Let's start with a beautiful one, namely H. V. Morton's new book entitled THE FOUNTAINS OF ROME. Mr. Morton has a long list of travel books to his credit and at least 12 of them remain in print, proof of the timelessness of his work. He says that this is the time to write of the fountains because the changes being wrought in the water systems and the ever present automobile are rapidly changing the fountains themselves. Heretofore, Rome's water supply came from the mountains by way of six aqueducts. There was no water storage and unused water flowed freely down into the sewers. Beautiful fountains were built everywhere to make this flowing water available to all. Now storage tanks are being constructed and small fountains will be furnished with turn-off taps to conserve water. And today the thousands of automobiles are not only obscuring the view of the fountains but in some cases small fountains are being destroyed by being banged and broken by closely parked cars. Securing the photographs for this book was a difficult task, but the results are most satisfying.

David Levine is a caricaturist of great ability. We have his book THE MAN FROM M.A.L.I.C.E. which is delightful. There is no text. The caricatures are arranged so many to the page and most of them are easily recognizable. At the back of the book is a list of the subjects. That is all. That is enough.

The inventor of Parkinson's Law is C. Northcote Parkinson and his latest book is entitled A LAW UNTO THEMSELVES. This is almost an autobiographical work, but not quite. It is in fact a collection of pieces about certain persons who have fugured in the author's life and there is even a short chronology of the actual events of his life at the end of the book. Many of the persons mentioned here you may never have heard of, and you may not particularly care to remedy that situation, but you may enjoy Parkinson's way of telling about them and how they influenced his life. Come on, take a chance on this one!

Even a passing glance at AN ISLAND TO MYSELF will convince you that the author, one Tom Neale, must be a most unusual person. He had been a sailor for many years and after that a shopkeeper in the Cook Islands, and always he had dreamed of life on an uninhabited island somewhere. He was in his fifties when he decided it was now or never. He moved with almost no equipment to the tiny island of Suvarov, and there he lived all by himself except for a couple of cats which he took along for company. He stayed for over five years. After leaving he wrote his book AN ISLAND TO MYSELF. This is a fantastic Robinson Crusoe sort of story, written in the first person, and very real. Tom Neale must be a great fellow and his book is well worth reading.

In 1666, London was only one year away from the Great Plague, when it was struck by the added blow of the fire which destroyed thousands of buildings and left countless people homeless. For four days the Duke of York led the fight against the fire and there were few deaths, considering the immensity of the destruction. The entire account of the fire and the rebuilding of London is told by John Bedford in his book LONDON'S BURNING. The book is illustrated with drawings and old maps showing the extent of the damage. The author lived on Fleet Street for many years and this may have helped to give his work it's sense of immediacy.

We seldom mention fiction in this column, but today we have a new novel which should please many readers who dislike the extreme realism of much fiction today. This one is called NO STEADY JOB FOR PAPA and it was written by Marion Benasutti. This is a first person book, and as real as spaghetti and meat balls.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Reality" is the subject of this week's Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday.

Bible references open with a verse from Isaiah: "The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory."

County Arts Council Hears Talk On MPC

Dr. George J. Faul, president of Monterey Peninsula College, gave the featured talk at the regular meeting of the Arts Coordinating Council on March 15 in the faculty room of the MPC Student Union with the college, which is a member of the council, acting as host.

Dr. Faul explained the entire building program for MPC expansion now under way and showed the architectural renderings of the new developments. He described the greatly improved facilities that will be provided when the buildings are completed. These, he said, will not only serve the students and faculty but also will be for the use and enjoyment of the community at large. Such additions as a gymnasium which can also be used for symphony concerts, ballet and other performances, a new little theatre and an outdoor amphitheatre can be used by both the college and the community.

The wildflower plantings, now flourishing around the new parking lot at the entrance to the campus, he told the group, are the first step in the planned arboretum which will follow the oak-shaded canyon which runs through the campus and where native plants will be grown and labeled for the information of schoolchildren and nature enthusiasts.

During the following business meeting, brochures listing the 48 active and associate member organizations and outlining the council's objectives were distributed. These handsome leaflets, which have been placed in local libraries, chambers of commerce and other public places, have been made possible by a contribution from Del Monte Properties Company.

PEARL L. HAUSMAN

Mrs. Pearl L. Hausman, a resident of Carmel since 1956, was found dead at her home on Mesa Drive and Atherton Way. Friends, who became anxious when they had not seen her since Friday, called the sheriff's office and the discovery was made at that time.

A native of Queneno, Kansas, Mrs. Hausman was born on April 20, 1893. She was the wife of the late George M. Hausman who died in 1961 and a member of the Carmel Presbyterian Church. Surviving are two nieces, Mrs. Melvin E. Hansen of North Hollywood and Mrs. Lois Criswell of San Diego.

Funeral services were conducted at noon today in the Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Those wishing to make contributions in the memory of Mrs. Hausman may do so to Central Mission Trails Heart Association, P.O. Box 191, Monterey.

Birch Society Aims Told By Col. Bunker

Brigadier General Frayne Baker (USA ret.) of Pebble Beach was visited last week by his former associate in the army and friend Colonel Laurence E. Bunker (USA ret.) now of Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts. They had served together under General Douglas McArthur in Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines and Japan. Col. Bunker was General McArthur's personal aide and confidential secretary in Tokyo and stayed with him in that capacity when he returned to New York and through 1951.

Col. Bunker is chairman of the New England Rally for God, Family and Country which is held yearly on the Fourth of July in Boston. His visit at this time resulted from attending the quarterly meeting of the John Birch Society held in Los Angeles two weeks ago. He is a member of the society's council and executive committee. Col. Bunker states that the major objective of the John Birch Society, at this time, is to alert our country to our government's inconsistencies. For example, the United States is now trading with Russia and other Communist bloc countries while these same countries are supplying fighting materials to the enemy which is killing our boys in Vietnam. He said the society recommends discontinuing this trade and drying up the supply by blockading ports where these shipments are being received.

The John Birch Society also objects to the bookkeeping burden being placed on businessmen and all citizens of this country. Col. Bunker said that, just as it was once said of England that it was a nation of shopkeepers, it now can be said that America is a nation of bookkeepers.

SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATES SPEAK TUESDAY

The Padre Parents of Carmel High School will host a Candidates Night for all those running for election to the Board of Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District at Carmel High School in Brey Hall on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The parent clubs of all schools in the Carmel area, Big Sur and Mid-Valley are invited to attend.

The candidates will introduce themselves with a three-minute statement of purpose and the program will then be open to questions from the floor. The evening will conclude with coffee served in the music building adjacent to Brey Hall on the high school campus.

There are three vacancies on the board being sought by seven candidates on April 18. The incumbents are Dr. Hilton Bialek and Steven Sassoon. Others running are Mrs. Dorothy Woodward Jones, Mrs. Agnes Martineau, Thomas Moore, Jr., Curtis A. Pringle and Richard Wilsdon.

An invitation to this meeting is extended to the public.

MOVING DAYS

The Carmel Police Department and the Department of Public Works are scheduled to begin moving into their new facility on Junipero between Fourth and Fifth next week. The move will take some time and it will be "business as usual" for both departments at Mission and Seventh until further announcement. Official opening of the new facility is set for May 6.

Supervisor Branson To Attend Meeting Of Surburban Council

Situations within the Monterey County 5th supervisorial district, which embraces Carmel and its environs, will be discussed Monday evening by Supervisor Willard T. Branson at the regular monthly meeting of the Carmel Suburban Area Council at 8 p.m. at the Mission Ranch. Branson has replaced Thomson J. Hudson as this area's representative on the board of supervisors.

All property owners of the unincorporated areas adjacent to Carmel included in County Service Area 43 are invited to meet the new supervisor, John S. Coates, chairman of the council, emphasizes.

KITE FESTIVAL ON SATURDAY AT MIDDLE SCHOOL

High-flying kites will compete at the traditional Carmel Kite Festival on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. on the Middle School athletic field. The event is sponsored by the Carmel Unified School District and the Carmel Lions Club.

In the event of rain the kite festival will be postponed to the following Saturday.

All kites must be made by contestants. Commercial, ready-made kites are not acceptable. In addition, says Charles Dawson, director of recreation, all kites must get into the air and fly in order to be eligible for prize consideration.

Prizes, donated by club, will be awarded for both kite design and high flying. The Willis White prize, commemorating the festival's founder, again will be awarded for best international design and the Ernest Calley perpetual plaque for the grand champion kite.

The kite festival was founded by the Reverend White in 1930 and has been held almost every year since then. Ernest Calley directed it for many years.

SIERRA CLUB TO DISCUSS POINT LOBOS PROBLEMS

Tonight, Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club will devote its meeting to a thorough discussion of Point Lobos State Reserve. Jesse Chaffee, district superintendent for state beaches and parks, will be present, also Harry Dean, supervisor of regional planning, and Don Rich, supervisor Point Lobos.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the music room at Carmel High School.
